Background

On November 12th 2015, Wingecarribee Shire Council held a full-day consultation event at the Mittagong RSL, involving approximately 170 young people ranging from Year 6 through to Year 11 from schools across the LGA, along with a range of youth service providers. The day was organised by Michelle Williams, Council's Youth Liaison Officer, who worked closely with a steering group comprised of St Vincent de Paul, UnitingCare Burnside, Sector Connect, Youth Solutions, Agryle Housing, Essential Personnel, Barnardos, local service providers, school teachers and young people who worked together to share skills, expertise and knowledge.

Prior to the day, young people across the shire were surveyed in order to help select the themes for the round table discussions, and to choose workshop topics.

The day began with a welcome by the Mayor of Wingecarribee, Larry Whipper, followed by an acknowledgement of country by Melissa Wiya. The introductions were followed by an ice breaker exercise. Young people were then invited to join round table discussions on a range of topics:

- Events and festivals
- After school and school holiday activities
- Sports and recreation
- Transport
- Teen hangout spaces
- Arts and culture
- Stress
- Peer pressure
- Sex and sexuality
- Intergenerational issues

Young people from the steering group facilitated the conversations at the tables, with youth services workers and Council staff from the Community Development Team, Community Engagement, Community Facilities and Parks and Recreation co-facilitating. These people were also on hand to guide and support the young people. Young people were given the opportunity to choose three issues they were interested in discussing, and spent approximately 20 minutes in each of the three discussion groups. During the roundtable discussions, young people's ideas, concerns and issues were recorded, and are captured in this report.

Following the round table discussions, young people had the opportunity to take part in one of five issue-based workshops. Each workshop was facilitated by a service provider with expertise in that area. The workshop topics were:

- Mental Health
- Body Image
- Personal safety (cyber bullying, bullying, conflict resolution and abuse)
- Education and Employment
- Team work and team building

After lunch, the students were invited to "pitch" their ideas for improving Wingecarribee to other young people, in order to build a ground-swell of support for the most popular ideas. This involved students sharing their ideas with the whole group. More than 20 young people took to the microphone to share their top issue or concern.

Following this, the young people were once again sent into small groups to discuss the ideas raised, and to make any final comments or recommendations by writing their ideas on post-it notes and adding these to the posters produced in the round table discussions, which had now been placed around the hall.

The final session of the day included a Q&A session with two local young people who have been involved in influencing change in local youth services and programs - Alessandro Donagh-De Marchi and Heath Elford. The young men shared ideas and experiences, and their top tips for other young people interested in changing their community for the better.

At the conclusion of the day, Michelle Williams explained how the information gathered from the day's discussions will be used. The aim of this report is to summarise and prioritise the recommendations and feedback from the day, in order to develop a shire-wide Youth Strategic Plan complete with actions to guide the Youth Liaison Officer's work plan for the next five years.

Council commissioned Andrew Cummings to facilitate the day. Andrew has nearly 30 years experience in working with young people in a wide range of organisations and settings, including running national and international youth organisations in Australia, the UK and Europe.

As well as planning and hosting the event, Council supported the involvement of young people on the day by covering transport costs for schools to bus the students in and out of the forum.

The program for the day is included as Appendix 1. Examples of the posters produced in each of the discussion groups are included as Appendix 2.

Summary of the Roundtable Discussions

The roundtable discussions were framed around ten key themes, selected from survey responses completed by young people prior to the event. The young people had the opportunity to join three roundtable discussions, each for approximately 20 minutes. Each theme had a series of questions aimed at exploring the issues under that theme for young people in Wingecarribee, and provide opportunities for young people to discuss ideas and suggest solutions to improve these issues.

The ten themes discussed were:

- Events and festivals
- After school and school holiday activities
- Sports and recreation
- Transport
- Teen hangout spaces
- Arts and culture
- Stress
- Peer pressure
- Sex and sexuality
- Intergenerational issues

Below is a summary of the key issues and suggestions made by young people in each of these ten discussion groups. It's important to note that the comments and issues included are those of the young people themselves, with as little interpretation as possible by the adults involved. This has been done in order to ensure that the report genuinely captures the views and opinions of the young people who attended the day. This means that at times, some comments may appear out of context, or appear to be included under the wrong theme, as the comments have been included in the discussion groups in which they were raised by the young people.

**Note: Following the recent opening of the PCYC, many of these suggestions can be met by the new centre. It's important to ensure that the PCYC is promoted well to young people in order to maximise its potential.*

- Increase bus routes, and decrease travel times by having express buses for longer distances with limited pick-ups
- Specific buses for students / young people to enable them to get to work, sporting activities etc outside of school hours
- Bus companies should research young people's needs in the afternoon and outside of school hours
- A free shuttle bus network is needed that connects various transport options (like in Wollongong)

- Location - not having the right areas to do things in
- People, businesses stopping you
- Stereotyping of young people from others in the community

- "The mentality in Wingecarribee Shire seems to be focused around more "older" ideas. From the perspective of youth living here, this idea seems to prevent young people from trying new things and discovering ideas and concerns"

c) Improving Access

These barriers could be reduced or overcome through the following things:

- Central locations
- Welcoming venues
- Close to public transport
- Designated teen spaces
- Having materials provided

- Young people don't feel supported by adults as they feel that adults don't understand the pressure young people are under
- There is lots of negative stigma around seeking help, and young people worry about confidentiality and remaining anonymous
- The cost of living is high in Wingecarribee and things are expensive. Young people are impacted by their parents' being stressed because of concerns about money
- Local job prospects are low for young people, and young people find it hard to fit part time work around their other activities
- There is a heavy workload / homework load for students. From Year 9 on young people are feeling pressured about the HSC. Young people are also concerned about limited subject choices at school
- Peer pressure - finding common interests with other young people and the need to fit in all put pressure on young people, which is hard to deal with
- There is pressure to look, dress and act a certain way
- Pressure to have a boyfriend / girlfriend
- Constant connectedness to social media creates stress. Especially because of bullying and nasty comments, negative judgements and worries about the number of likes on Facebook
- There is a fear of judgement, embarrassment and shame associated with accessing support services, because the region is small and everyone knows each other
- There is a lack (or perceived lack) of services available to support young people, so they resort to help from people they know or online

Suggested Outcomes by Young People

The following suggestions were made to combat stress amongst young people in Wingecarribee:

- Increase the number and range of support services available to young people. This should include services in schools, as well as outreach services and online support. Services should be more young people friendly, comfortable and welcoming. A commitment to confidentiality should be ensured.

- Saying no and your friends being angry with you
- The pressure is there from Year 6, and it gets harder and more complex as you go through high school
- Needing to have enough confidence to be yourself
- Sometimes pressure is good - it can help you to try something new or face your fears
- Can lead to losing friends
- Learning that its ok to be yourself and the world will still accept you
- Realising who your friends are, and who will support you
- Pressure also comes from external sources, such as media - TV, magazines, social media
- It can start off as fun but end up in trouble
- Pressure from parents - comparisons with siblings, other family members, friends
- Peer pressure can stop you from following your dreams and passions
- Continuing to be a friend no matter what choices you and your friends make - let them know you are there for them, not judging them
- Peer pressure can effect your future - opportunities, relationships, employment
- You can end up settling for something rather than doing what you really want

Suggested Outcomes by Young People

The following recommendations came out of the small group discussions:

- More conversations are needed from an early age to educate and equip young people to deal with peer pressure before it happens, not after. There should be daily conversations about this, not one-off events. This should start in primary school and continue through high school
- Learning the skills to say no
- Educate parents to support young people with peer pressure
- Providing peer mentoring and positive role models to counter-balance the negative impacts
- More information should be provided to young people about external support services - knowing where to go for help
- More activities and venues which provide an environment where peer pressure is less likely or not tolerated, such as alcohol and drug free activities and events

9. Sex and Sexuality

This group looked at issues faced by young people concerning sex and sexuality, with a focus on young people who are lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, inter-sex or questioning (LGBTIQ).

The impact that these issues have on intergenerational relationships are:

Technology - Older people don't like change, and young people could be less reliant on technologies. Young people don't think that older people can use / make the best use of technology

Generational differences

- Traditions, rules and regulations
- Lack of interest between the generations
- Older people tend to be less accepting of differences in culture and sexuality
- "Young people think older people are rude and grumpy. Older people think young people are rude and grumpy"

Involvement in family life

Suggested Outcomes by Young People

- Provide more opportunities for young people to meet with older people, and to respect the lives they have lived
- There should be more involvement across all years at school with older people, e.g. holding Grandparents Day at primary and high schools; older people sharing at careers expos
- Encourage opportunities through schools for family members to be involved in activities across all year groups

- More money - not being able to afford things because of no jobs
- More and faster public transport

**Note: Post-its recommending political education were written and pasted on each of the posters around the room. This seems to have been a well coordinated campaign by a small number of young people keen to see this happen.*

Recommendations

The following recommendations are made to Wingecarribee Shire Council, arising from the issues and ideas discussed during this youth forum:

1. That Council works with local service providers to ensure that there are youth-specific spaces which house a wide range of youth services, programs and activities, and provide young people with a fun and affordable activities, such as the recently opened PCYC Southern Highlands. Council should work with the PCYC to ensure the new space is widely promoted to young people, and should investigate whether other similar youth spaces are needed within Wingecarribee Shire.
2. That Council lobbies for a range of services which address the issues raised by young people including stress and anxiety, peer pressure and sexuality. This should include services for young people, as well as programs which raise awareness of issues with parents and community members.
3. That Council explores a range of youth-focused events and activities suggested by young people at this forum, ensuring that these are well planned, promoted, affordable and accessible. This should include a wide range of cheap or free creative activities such as street art, busking, arts workshops and performance opportunities.
4. That Council works with key stakeholders to explore more effective ways of promoting the existing services and recreational opportunities for young people, in order to highlight and showcase the available services, programs and activities available to young people in Wingecarribee. Council should ensure that young people are involved in the design of promotional materials to ensure their relevance and suitability, including discussing ways to reduce the stigma associated with using / attending services and activities.
5. That Council works with local services and stakeholders to explore ways to reduce inter-generational conflict and to improve inter-generational understanding and cooperation. This should include a focus on addressing judgements and stereotypes between generations, and opportunities for young people to mix with older people, such as young people teaching older people about new technologies and social media.
6. That Council works with key stakeholders - including the NSW Government and the NSW Advocate for Children and Young People - in order to address concerns raised by young people about gaps in public transport and the impact this is having on young people's access to a range of services, recreation and employment opportunities. Council should also look at ways to increase accessibility within and between towns and villages, such as improved footpaths and bike tracks.
7. That Council works with key stakeholders - including local business groups, employers, state and federal government - to explore ways to increase employment opportunities for young people, including entry-level jobs which enable young people to stay living in the Shire after completing their education.
8. That Council continues to offer regular forums and consultations similar to this one, in order to promote and encourage consultation, information sharing, collaboration, and the sharing of ideas and resources with and between Council, youth services providers and young people.
9. That Council establishes a group / committee charged with responsibility for further investigating and developing the ideas put forward during this forum. This group / committee should include representatives from Council, local youth service providers, young people and community members.
